

I have not passed the exam of a previous course but would like to attend the course of the next level: Can I take the placement test for this purpose?

Yes, you can take the placement test to reach the next level, but you should first check with your former teacher or someone responsible for the language in question whether this procedure is appropriate in your case, as not passing the previous course is not a sufficient basis for the next course.